We’re excited to share that AEC is now an official member of “team Kensetsu Chura Komachi” — a dynamic network for women working in Okinawa’s construction industry, including female engineers and other professionals!

■ What’s “team Kensetsu Chura Komachi” all about?

“team Kensetsu Chura Komachi” is a dynamic network for women in Okinawa’s construction industry, including female engineers and other professionals. Established by a coalition of companies across the prefecture, the team is committed to fostering a more inclusive and empowering workplace for women. Their mission is to promote female participation, advance technical skills, and cultivate a supportive working environment.

Through regular study sessions, hands-on career tours, and events that connect with female students, the team actively showcases the appeal of the construction industry to the next generation. It’s all about collaboration—transcending company lines—to create a space where women can truly thrive.

At AEC, we’re proud to stand behind this initiative. By partnering with team Kensetsu Chura Komachi, we’re taking meaningful steps toward a more diverse and equitable future in construction.
